Ceramic Wax: The Winter Weather Beater

Detailing experts offer the following suggestions and benefits of using ceramic-based waxes or polishes:

- Ceramic-based waxes extend the shine of your vehicle by weeks or longer. This is especially helpful for vehicles left outside or driven daily in harsh summer or winter conditions.
- Look for products specifically labeled "ceramic" (usually combined with the term "SiO2") to provide the latest technology in auto surface protection.
- Choose the product that best suits your car care needs. For instance, you may find ceramic waxes in car wash solutions, or a spray-on wax and detailers for quick clean-up use on contaminants such as bird droppings or sap.
- Make sure to read application directions before applying ceramic wax. It is not necessarily the same as applying carnauba products. Use a terry cloth or microfiber towel to apply and remove the wax. It must be applied to clean surfaces and should not be allowed to dry on painted surfaces. Wipe thoroughly.
- For a quick solution, have your vehicle cleaned at an automated drive-through wash which offers ceramic-based wax application. The process does not last as long when applying ceramic wax manually, but drivers benefit from improved protection against winter weather.

IS YOUR PET CONSTANTLY LICKING ITS PAWS OR BODY?

Submitted By
Patsy Nelson
 from The Wagging Tail

My Maltese, Zoey, is constantly licking her paws. She has for years. And she sometimes looks at her front paws with quick jerks of her head as if there are little mites running around. I took her to the vet to make sure there were no organisms lurking about. When we are in bed and I am trying to read and she is annoying me with licking and biting, I stick her lambchop toy in front of her face and she starts licking the toy instead. Zoey has never bitten her paws to cause sores. And I just deal with the brownish fur caused by her saliva. Ebby licks her fur a lot and particularly now on the left back knee area where she had her Patellar luxation surgery. But, like a cat, she seems to groom herself. Although I think that Zoey licks from habit, I used two sources to evaluate causes and cures: BetterVet Team and an article by Nomi Berger.

There are numerous allergens which a dog or cat must endure, just like humans. We all deal with sensitivity to insects, certain foods, and environmental issues. Dust mites and yeast infections, (two of my articles) can be contributing factors. Antihistamines may help as well as omega-3 supplements. During the end of the summer when the itching seems to be more dramatic, I will give Zoey or Ebby a bit of Benadryl. Occasionally Zoey attacks the insides of one or both thigh areas to the point of inflammation (but not broken skin) and I wash the areas and spray with my favorite-Dr. Richard's Incredible Skin Spray. After a day or two the areas appear normalized.

Some dogs may have Dog Pododermatitis. Symptoms include inflammation of paws, nail beds, paw pads, and between the toes. A foot bath of a gallon of warm water, a cup of hydrogen peroxide, and 1/4 cup of apple cider vinegar* may help especially if your dog has a yeast infection. Don't rinse the solution off, just pat dry. Can be used on the entire body as well. Your vet will help with Dog Pododermatitis or any serious issue. A cut or growth, and even arthritis may cause a pet to obsess with their paw(s). Check the length of the nails, Zoey gets groomed every six weeks but occasionally she sounds like she is chewing on her nails. Same with one of our cats at home. I am good at trimming cat nails, but not so comfortable with dog nails. Check for matting between the toes on longer haired pets. If anxiety is the root of the paw chewing, CBD oil or chews may be enough to maintain a pet's serenity. I use Pet Releaf treats for Ebby when she is exhibiting anxiety and as they do not like the taste of Grizzly Joint Aid, about which I get rave reviews, I now give them both the Pet Releaf Hip and Joint. I put some Pill Pockets Cheese on the end and they both inhale the treats. And Zoey recently exhibited a reluctance to go up the steps in the morning and after a few days on a joint support, she is fearless again.

*I mistakenly put 1-4 cups in a previous article

Thank you to those who tell me how much they like to read my articles. If there is any issue you would like me to address simply call or Facebook message the store.
